How are commoners represented in the Verderers Court?

Anyone, commoner or not, can make a “presentment” to the regular meetings of the Verderers Court on any Forest matter than concerns them. The commoners also elect their five members of the Verderers Court, to represent them within this important decision making body, and sit alongside the four appointed verderers, and the Official Verderer. The Official Verderer is usually also a commoner. The Verderers' website provides useful information on the Court and the work of the Verderers.
